MISSOULA--

A course entitled "Health and Risk in Outdoor Recreation Experiences" will be offered from June 13-17 at the University of Montana in Missoula.

The course, offered to all interested persons, is designed to alert students to the health-related benefits and physical and emotional limitations affecting people who participate in high-risk recreation programs.

Other areas which will be integrated into the course will include recreational performance, health and safety principles and reactions to high-risk activity.

The UM Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (HPER) is offering the course during the summer Pre-Session at UM for three graduate or undergraduate credits. The course will be taught by Dr. Joel F. Meier, associate professor in HPER, and Dr. Thomas Whiddon, assistant professor of HPER, in an outdoor setting.

applications
Pre-Session / and registration will be through the UM Office of Admissions and Records.

However, summer course bulletins and applications are available from the UM Center for Continuing Education and Summer Programs, Main Hall 107, University of Montana, Missoula, Mont. 59812, or may be requested by phoning 243-2900.
